THE New York Herald was founded by James Gordon Bennett in 1835. It remained the sole property of its founder until his death, in 1872, when his son, also James Gordon Bennett, succeeded to the ownership of the paper, which remained in his hands until his death, in 1918. The Herald became the property of Frank A. Munsey, its present owner, in 1920.

A Year of Prohibition.

THE NEW YORK HERALD published Sunday an illuminating account with facts and figures of our first year of national prohibition. While the record is not all that the friends of prohibition could wish, nevertheless it is perhaps quite as good in the situation as might have been expected by close Conversely it is a record that will give hope to the millions of surface thinkers who are openly at war with national prohibition. It will encourage the vigorous and determined antiof unlimited money.

A Fine Harding Message.

Senator Harding, it chances, speaks a fine word at this time when he is going away from Marion for a brief rest before entering the White House. It is in a letter to John A. Stewart. ents chairman of the Board of Governors

"DEAR MR. STEWART: The labor of uniting into still closer amity and understanding the English speaking peoples of the world has a significance of good to all Americans and to all nations and races of the world.

"Destiny has made it a historical fact that the English speaking peoples have been the instrument through which civilization has been flung to the far corners of the globe. I am impressed not so much by the glory take to themselves as by the profound duties that Gop has thrust upon them-duties of being restrained, tolerant and just. These duties will find their greatest recognition in a united, unshakable friendship and understanding and oneness of purpose-not for the exclusion from brotherhood of others but for a better brotherhood flowing toward

"I believe that when the wisdom of America is summoned to assist the world in building a workable, as distinguished from a bungling agreetion of war, unity of English speaking peoples will play no small part, not to invade the rights or exclude the fellowship of other nations but to protect and include them.

washington, D. C., Jan. 17—The storm central last night immediately east of Lake Huron moved rapidly eastward and tonight its centre was over Newfoundland. Within the last twenty-four hours this digturbance caused west and northwest gales on the middle Atlantic and New England coasts and snow in the north border States from Michigan eastward to Maine. Another storm is approaching the Washington and Oregon coasts and it has been attended by general rains in the Packle States and cloudiness west of the Rocky Mountains.

The barometer is now decidedly above normal in all districts cast of the Rocky Mountains, with the maximum pressure over the The Schumann Club, a women's choir lake region. There has been in temperature throughout the
